Hey Annie!

Ahh, what a great feeling to be done with another year :) We've eaten our last meal in the cafeteria, pulled our last all nighter, signed the honor code on our last exam, and put away our uniforms for the last time. Sure, this year has had its ups and downs, but take a second or two to look back. Somehow, no matter how hectic a school year can be, no matter how much you anticipate the end, the best part is seeing the year in retrospect. Isn't it fun to look at who we were at the beginning of the year and then take a look at who we are now? :)

Summer Vacation

AWS students were out and about this summer. We were out to take on the world and our stories show it. Paris, Greece, Connecticut, and even Washington will remember the AWS student invasion. Next year, we may take on the Middle East. But, they might not be ready for us.

Right: Selena Soo with friends at a Summer Program in Connecticut. Can't get away from school, can we Selena?

Weekends

AWS students may have a lot of homework but they still take time out to kickback and have fun. From Professional Sabercats ice hockey games to The Marriage of Figaro, Annie Wright students know how to relax and enjoy the weekend.

Plays

From strength to strength--academics to theater. Annie Wright prides itself in its theatrical activities. Lower School, Middle School, and Upper School introduce theater to the students and the community by making it come alive.

The snow glistened on the trees,
Reflecting into my eyes sheer swirls of color.
The previously perfect snow had thin
continuous lines in it,
Like space, never ending, going out on.
It was beautiful beyond belief.
I hardly could believe I stood in this majesty, Gliding along in wonder and awe.

Extra, extra read all about it! Kindergarten had a great time learning phonics and reading. They learned about communities, neighborhoods, and transportation. In addition to learning problem solving and socialization skills, Kindergarten answered the question . . . if I ran the school. Among the faculty visited, Mr. Mertz, Mr. Klarsch, and Mrs. Tuohy, were voted most popular.

This year, the first graders have studied many topics. In an effort to learn about communities, they studied transportation and shelter. During the habitat unit, they focused on bears and had a "Teddy Bear Day." These students have also acquainted themselves with maps, examined the human body, and observed different patterns in art class.

Second graders have studied everything under the sun. From dinosaurs to the solar system, and from early humans to air planes, these kids have seen the highlights of the history of the world. Some of their activities included acting as "Nature Detectives" and hosting the famous "Paper Airplane Toss." They even found time to learn about themselves by examining the human body and learning about healthy eating habits.

Third graders now know everything from tiny spiders to huge disasters. They began the year by reading Charlotte's Web and learning about pigs and spiders. They expanded their knowledge of Washington State: its geography, land forms, rocks, minerals, animals, and environmental issues. They studied natural disasters such as the sinking of the Titanic and volcanic eruptions.

The fourth grade mainly focused on the Pacific Northwest. They studied its different regions, diverse cultures, tribal history, and then related this information to the rest of the United States. For instance, they first learned about Mount St. Helens and then applied that information to gain a better understanding of how volcanoes have affected the entire U.S. Lessons about money, geology, and citizenship were also part of this year's curriculum.

This year, the fifth graders have ruled the Lower School. They found time to learn everything they needed to know in order to move up to Middle School. Their curriculum was centered on the United States and included units on the colonies, pioneers, westward expansion, and concluded with the Civil War. They read Rascal to bring this history to life and even took a field trip back in time to a pioneer farm. Despite their exciting historical adventures, these fifth graders managed to complete their first of many Wordly Wise books.

we are free... the 1999 seniors

Subject: We are free...

Hey Seniors!

So! We've gone from hating each other as freshmen to bonding at Denny's on random Saturday mornings. We've had our troubles, from ski trip fiascos, to prom and finally a big case of senioritis. We know how to play! We have created snow forts, all night sledding parties, all class sleep overs, and dedicating conversations to bodily functions. We have climbed this academic ladder for so long, and now that we are at the top, we look down and sigh. It's OK girls, we've eaten our spinach, and our hearts will go on. We're strong, and we have the stuff it takes to climb the academic ladder with assurance and pride! We will love each other always, GO SPINACH! S-P-I-N-A-C-H!

CREW (Kru), n.1. a sport practiced in rowing boats where the participants willfully awake before dawn and run to practice where they spend one to two hours sitting on a hard wood seat and pull on oars to such a level as to cause oxygen debt, resulting in the formation of lactic acid in their blood, which causes substantial pain and discomfort in all major muscle groups. Monica-we've come along way, 18 years. You've always been there for me, since I was born. Thanks for all the memories, talks and hugs. I love you very much.

My crazy family! I love you all so much. Thanks for supporting me through everything. You guys are great! I'll miss you all lots! Love, Tyana Aunt Cathy-We did it! We're both done with school! Yeah!!!! (me, almost) You've been a second mom. Thanks for so many late nights on the computer and correcting papers. You've always been supportive. I love you and will miss you.

It's the course! Though we all have large age differences, we're always there for each other. Thanks for the memories. I love you all.

Nana-You've grown up before my eyes and it's wonderful to be a grand. I know I give you a hard time, but I'm just joking. You are a loving, caring, and wonderful little brother. Always keep in touch and if you have any problems I'll be there. I love you lots.

Mom & Dad- Wow, I finally did it. 10 years is a long time and a big sacrifice. I love you both with my heart and soul. I never say thank you, but I'm always thinking it. I appreciate everything you've done for me. You've brought me up very well. I will miss you both so much. Just remember I will always be your little girl. Love you.

Laura-Crazy, hyper girl!! Joking! I love you so much. You are like a sister, my best friend. 9 years is a long time, yet it has gone by so fast. The laughs, tears, smiles, vacations, camps, beaches, classes, getting into trouble, and just being there. From Mrs. Fuller's class (the pencil!) to graduating from high school, I love you always. I know we'll be friends for life. Take care, Love, Tyana

Cassie-sweet, thank you for always being there for me from 10:00am to 5:00pm. You're a good friend. I love you! (and I miss you)

Ship-You're an awesome girl and I'm glad we're friends. Remember singing on the cruise forever!

Mom and Hannah-the twins. Thanks for all the great times over the years. I know whenever I need to talk to you, you will be there. This summer and next will always be remembered.

Ashley girl- Is my little girl! And you are and always will be! This summer was an experience and fun. Even though we became friends recently, it seems like forever. Remember, I'm only a call away. Love you!

Cindy & Glenn- I can never thank you both for all that you have given me: the adventure, the opportunity, and the love. I love you both with all my heart and I am lucky to be part of your lives.

Grandma and Grandpa - I am sorry to say that at times I didn't quite express how grateful I am for everything you have done for me. Sometimes I just needed that little push that you so lovingly gave. I can never fully express the love I have for you or the gratitude either. You saved my life and made me proud to say where I come from. I'll always love you!

Sarah - Together we've been through some really tough times. I am so glad that I have such a wonderful big sister, someone that is always willing to lend a hand in any way possible. I love you, Sarah!

Katie and Kacibunch - You have been my strength at school and beyond. Through rain or shine we'll always have our memories and our laughs. It's been tough, but we've all made it through. Thank you both for your friendship and love!

"Once there was a darkness, deep and endless night. You gave me everything you had, oh, you gave me light. And I will remember you. Will you remember me?" - Sarah McLachlan Laurel - You have been my savior everyday. Thank you for drying the tears and holding my hand. You are an angel on earth. I know you'll be a part of my life forever. So this is not "good-bye", it's simply "I love you!"

When evil men advance against me to devour my flesh, when my enemies and my foes attack me, they will stumble and fall. Though an army besiege me, my heart will not fear; though war break out against me, even then will I be confident. One thing I ask of the Lord, this is what I seek: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord and to seek him in his temple. For in the day of trouble he will keep me safe in his dwelling; he will hide me in the shelter of his tabernacle and set me high upon a rock. Then my head will be exalted above the enemies who surround me; at his tabernacle will I sacrifice with shouts of joy; I will sing and make music to the Lord." Psalm 27:1-6

 First of all, Thanks so much for supporting me and being so nice! I did not tell you one thing that I always think in my heart! "I Love you!"
 Although I was ^{not} a good daughter, you never gave me up and supported me! I'll promise that I'll always be your good daughter in the future! I feel so sorry that I always made you hurt! We both had a hard time, right? But I know you are the best parents for me! I know we'll have better and happier time in the future! I love you always! Annie! Although we don't talk that much, I'm always proud of you because you never make a trouble!
 Good luck! I know your future will be bright! I ~~love~~ love you all! Thanks ♡

Co-op Helpers

The Upper School students find numerous ways to help out in the Annie Wright community. From co-op helpers to art aides, many students enjoy helping others at the school. Twice a week these students set off to read to children in Lower School, share the filing and cataloging in the Library, and provide an extra pair of hands for the many activities around campus.

All three soccer teams had amazing seasons this year. With the help of wonderful coaches and hard working players, many matches ended in victory for the Gators. The Middle School Girls team won every game played, making them the champions of their league. The Middle School Boys played successfully too, making the entire school proud. The Upper School had a tremendous season with many close games. At every game, the number of spectators increased due to the promise of an exciting game.

Volleyball

Bump, Set, SPIKE! Volleyball, both in the Upper School and the Middle School, had very exciting and demanding seasons. With practice every day after school and the occasional Saturday workout, the players proved themselves to be dedicated. The US Volleyball team won second place in their league, qualifying them to play at Districts. Both teams look forward to another wonderful season next year, with even more wins!

Cross-Country

The Cross-Country Team, both in the Middle and Upper Schools, had a hard season. The weather has not been optimal and occasionally the teams thought themselves more as swimmers instead of runners. Despite this, every runner continued to beat his/her prior records.

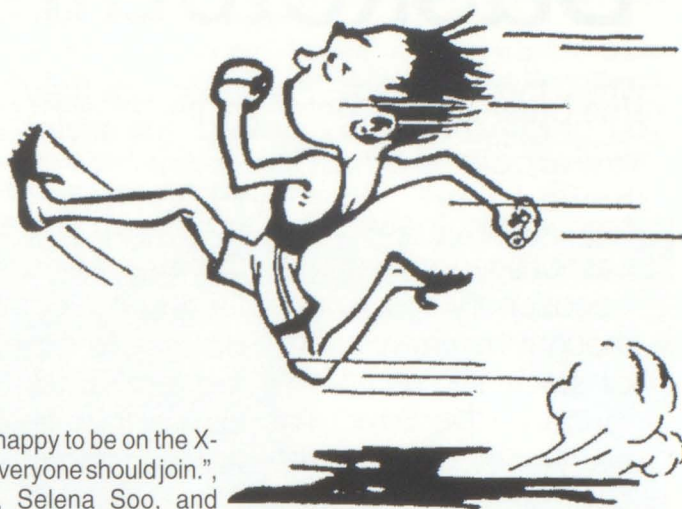

In the Upper School, Paul Manning and Susan Bennett received the Best Coach's Award from the SeaTac League. In addition to this honor, the entire US team earned the title of Best Team Sportsmanship.

Basketball

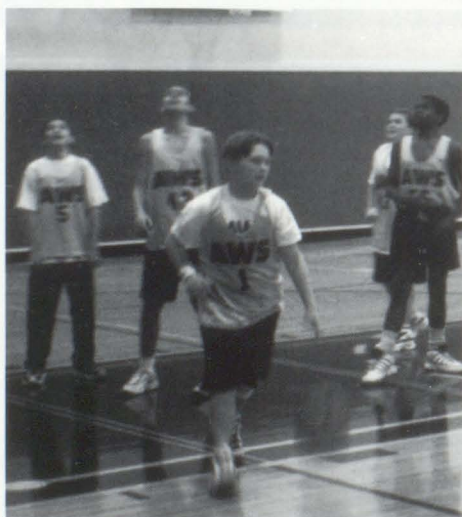

While the NBA was out on strike, the AWS Basketball teams showed up to practice every single day ready to play the game they love. All of their hard work and dedication paid off. Both the Boys' and Girls' teams continually progressed throughout the season as they racked up point after point. While they still don't make as much money as the pros, they have a lot more fun on the court passing the ball around. They all look forward to another great year!

Individual Sports

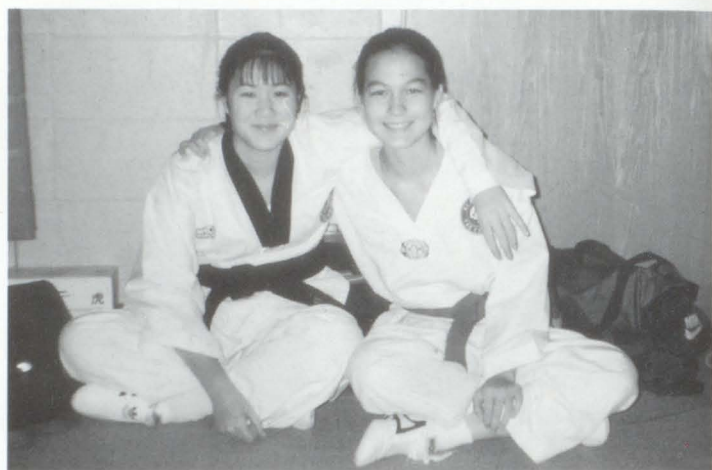

Although Annie Wright offers a wide variety of athletics, some students choose to go beyond the walls of school for sports. Students pursue their interests in gymnastics, dance, martial arts, and competitive horseback riding, which are not offered at AWS. Most of the time, these athletes perform their talents at a very high level. They excel in their passion, dedicating hours each day to improvement. While school sports only last a few months, these individual athletes practice year round. Every year, they perform for the public, receiving applause for their long months of hard work.

Ride 'em COWGIRL! Katherine Drees dedicates many hours a week to the perfection of riding and showing horses. She travels to various competitions nationwide to compete with her Arabian horses, winning many awards yearly.

"Mommy, when I grow up, I wanna be a ballerina like Kate!" Kate Monthy has been dancing for more than two-thirds of her life. Each year, she performs in The Nutcracker with Tacoma City Ballet. This year, she was the star as the Snow Queen, seen here rehearsing.

Sailing

"Put that long skinny thingie in that flap, and I think that rope gets tied there." Corinna Burghardt tells Clara De Diego how to assemble the sail.

The Sailing Team made waves this season. The team was larger than it has ever been in the past. So large, in fact, that the Tacoma Yacht Club has offered to let the team use a 35ft. sailboat next year.

With this new addition to the team, sailors will be able to participate in races on the Sound. They all look forward to the new opportunities next season.

I Am a Memory...

What is your favorite memory of the sailing season?

"I remember laughing when I learned that the daily run to Starbucks was covered in the sailing team budget!" - Stephanie Smith

"Look, I'm like Joey on Dawson's Creek and you're Jen!" says Amber Tyrell to Lauren Eidal.

Track

Both the Middle School and Upper School track teams enjoyed a lively season. The athletes worked out at neighboring Stadium High School, and had a lot of fun in the process. Coach Emil Verbovski lead both teams again this year, helping them to continually progress in accomplishing both team and personal goals. Congratulations to the 1999 AWS track team! Keep on running!

Softball

The AWS Softball Team kicked some serious you-know-what this season. During the pre-season prep, it seemed like a few players weren't very excited about sacrificing their extra-curricular lives to the batting cages, but they put their private lives aside, gritted their teeth, even passed up mall runs, and did it ever pay off! These champs can catch flies, run home, and most importantly (in the words of Cassie Reeves) "just hit the ball!" They sure are some serious hardcore softball players.

You better watch out! Miranda Graham winds up to throw the ball and she has a fast pitch for the game of softball.

"Dare me to break your camera?!" Tobi Borst gets ready to chuck the ball.

"Just because I am hurt, doesn't mean I can't hit you with this ball!!" exclaims Keeley Nesheim.

Crew

Although to some, crew may sound like a form of torture, for rowers, it is a competitive and fun sport. This season, AWS decided to have afternoon practices instead of last year's insane five a.m. workouts. The team worked every day to increase endurance and build strength, improving as a whole. With the help of Coach Malcolm, the AWS crew team had a wonderful season, beating last year's records. They had a terrific time at both Brentwood International Regatta in Canada and at the Northwest Jr. Regionals. The team looks forward to racing again next spring.

"I think I can! I think I can!" thinks Kira Yanko as she lifts the racing shell over her head to carry it down to the dock. It seemed that the hardest part of the workout was lifting the boats up and down before practice.

I Am a Memory...

What was your favorite memory of the crew season?

"It was the middle of our third consecutive sprint piece and I thought I was about to die of exhaustion, when all of a sudden, I felt my oar hit something squishy, yet pliable. It was a Canadian goose!" - Kira Yanko

Row, row row your boat... The AWS team pry the oars through the water to pull past other boats. With matching technique, they had a very fast boat.

PULL HARDER! Robin Barrick encourages Katie Smith to keep up her strength through the tough erg piece. Coaches claimed that erg work improved rowing, however, most rowers disagreed.

(below) Yoon-Mee Kim: A seasoned tennis star who knows how to deal with paparazzi

These tennis superstars started out great and only improved as the season progressed. Aside from fine-tuning their skills and catching some rare Washington sunshine, they managed to have some serious fun. Tiffany Fisher remarked, "Most people don't perceive tennis as a team sport since we don't play all together, but we really are close and it's great how everyone supports one another." These ladies may seem nice, but watch out-- they sure know how to hit!

To the tune of the "Alma Mater"

Hail to thee our Green Tie Seniors
Glad you found the spade
We'll see you coming back in ten years,
Looking like old maids

Chorus:
Hail to thee our Green Tie Seniors,
Who left us all too soon,
Now you go into the real world,
Out to face thy doom

From the Yellow Ties

We, the Green Tie Class of 1999 would like to thank all of our supporters. Friends, family, teachers and fellow students, you guided our individualism, taught us what it takes to be a strong woman, dignity, respect, integrity in addition to our academic endeavors. Success and true adventure will surely accompany us throughout our lives. Thank you for being our foundation, Thank You.

~The Green Tie Class of 1999

"What constitutes success? She (he) has achieved success who has lived well; laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled her (his) niche and accomplished her (his) task; who has left the world better than she (he) found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty, or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best she (he) had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory is a benediction."

~ Mrs. A. J. Stanley

The Adventure

"We cannot tell what may happen to us in the strange medley of life. But we can decide what happens in us—how we can take it, what we can do with it—and that is what really counts in the end. How to take the raw stuff of life and make it a thing of worth and beauty—that is the test of living. Life is an adventure of faith, if we are to be victors over it, not victims of it."

Dear Miranda Jo,
I want to tell you how much I love you, and how very proud we are with all of your achievements in the last 18 years, and also tell you how very special you've always been. You have almost always excelled at school and at play. Sometimes it has taken a little extra effort but you have always tried hard. Times have not always been easy, but we have all survived, and I think that we are all stronger for it. You are about to go away for college, and I have every faith in you and your success. I thank God every day for giving me such a precious and gifted daughter.

Hey Annie!

The years just go by faster and faster, don't they? They seem so slow, but when you look back, they're a blur! Can you believe the end of the school year is already here? The end of the school year, the end of the decade, the century, and even the millennium! But you know what they say, every end leads to a new beginning. Don't you wonder what the future holds in store for us? I mean, we know who we've been, we see who we are, but I wonder, who will we become? See you next year! :)
